NEW YORK (TheStreet) - Wall Street had a relatively quiet day as markets rose early in the day to keep those gains until a run-off of trading. Wall Street was shut down in wait mode and seen ahead of Friday's unemployment report. The S&P 500 was up 0.29% at 2,114, just points from a closing high of 2,117.69 on April 24. The Dow Jones industrial average added 0.26%, while the Nasdaq climbed 0.23%. This week, we focus on Friday's jobs report. Expectations are in the second quarter for a comeback, said Mark Luschni, chief investment officer at Janney Montgomery Scott, for CNBC. Nefam payrolls for April will be released before the bell on Friday. Economists expect 225,000 jobs to be added in the month, far better than the 126,000 added in March. Crude oil slipped after China's factory activity fell faster than expected, prompting fears of weakened oil demand in the world's second-largest economy. HSBC's final purchasing managers' index fell in the fastest pace in a year, in April to 48.9, from 49.6 in March. West Texas intermediate crude closed down 0.4% to $58.93 a barrel. Oil fracking companies including PioneerNatural Resources (PXD) - Get Report, Concho Resources (CXO) - Get Report, and Whiting Petroleum (WLL) - Get Report slipped after activist investor David Einhorn, founder of Greenlight Capital, criticized the fracking industry. We oppose fracturing oil because investment can contaminate returns, he said at Ira Sohn's 20th annual investment conference on Monday. New orders for manufactured goods rose 2.1% in March after a 0.1% decline a month earlier, the Commerce Department said. The increase was the largest since July. Economists had expected a 2 percent increase. AbbVie (ABBV) - Get Report spiked 0.6% after Larry Robbin, CEO of Glenview Capital Management, said that the biotech company was trading relatively cheaply and that its pipeline was undervalued. Robbin was speaking at an investment conference. The utility sector was the best performing at the S&P 500. Exelon (EXC) - Get Report, (SO) - Get Report, Duke Energy (DUK) - Get Report and Dominion Resources (D) - Get Report Were All Higher. While the Utilities SPDR ETF (XLU) - Get Report added 0.7%. McDonald's (MCD) - Shares of Get Report have fallen after the fast food chain unveiled its for the plant. The company said it would focus on operating fees but did not address its menu, so consumers are quickly turning to other others Options such as Chipotle (CMG) - Get Report.Charter Communications (CHTR) - Get Report is in talks with Time Warner Cable (TWC) after the planned merger of the latter with Comcast was dropped through, according to TheWall Street Journal. Charter is said to have sought a less hostile approach than its failed takeover last year. Diamond Offshore (DO) - Get Report was 1.1% lower despite beating expectations on its top and bottom lines. The company reported earnings of 50 cents per share, 7 cents higher than forecast. Revenue slid 12.6% to $620 million as falling oil prices affected its drilling. Sysco (SY) - Get Report slipped 1.3% after missing expectations in the third quarter. The food distributor is also preparing to fight for a merger on Tuesday. The company will face the Federal Trade Commission in federal court in Washington. Cisco (CSCO) - Get The Report named Chuck Robbins as its new CEO, which is due to take effect July 26. Robbins was previously senior vice president of global operations and will replace John Chambers, who has been in office for 20 years. As one of the leading innovators in electric vehicles, the car maker Tesla has created a lot of press. It has developed a loyal following from customers who believe in technology companies and often laud CEO Elon Musk with dedication. It's one of Silicon Valley's most profiled tech companies, and investors have enjoyed a fast-track share over the past decade. Here's how to pick up Tesla shares and what to consider before buying.1. Analyze Tesla and its financesAnalysis of the company's competitive position and financial assets is probably the hardest part of buying shares, but it's also the most important. The best thing to start with is the 10-K company form, which is an annual report that all publicly-regulated companies must file with the SEC. 10-K can help you understand a lot about the company: how it earns money and how much its assets and liabilities its profitability trend over time competitive landscape different risks faced by the company's management team and how they are encouraging The Annual Report is an excellent first step in identifying the company, but you'll want to do more than that. You'll want to study what other companies are doing to compete, for example. It is important to have a broader view of the industry. While Tesla, for example, is well known for electric vehicles and bouncing into autonomous driving, it's not the only player and much deep in the pocket rivals are interested in its markets. Alphabet's Waymo division and Uber are developing autonomous vehicles, while more traditional carmakers are pursuing hybrid-electric and all-electric vehicles, as well as exploring self-driving vehicles. It's crowded because the opportunity is huge.2. Does Tesla make sense in your portfolio? With a smaller current market for electric rather than traditional cars, Tesla may have fewer opportunities today than While sales have been growing sharply over the past few years, the company has been steadily losing out in 2016-2018. In fact, the company had to raise more money - about $2.4 billion - in May to fund operations, and some analysts see the company as a risky prospect. Therefore, you will want to consider the following questions: Does a growing company meet your needs? Will you be able to continue analyzing the business as it grows? Given the volatility of the stock, will you be able to hold on if it falls or even buy more? Tesla doesn't pay a dividend - do you need that in stock? If you're buying just a little tesla as a starter position or to get some skin in the game, those think-or-maybe aren't as important as when you take the whole position.3. How much can you afford to invest? How much you can afford to invest has less to do with a Joba than with your personal financial situation. Supplies can be volatile. To give investment time to work, you may want to leave money in stock for at least three to five years. This means that we should be able to live without money for at least that long. The commitment to hold shares for three to five years is important. A teslo wouldn't have to sell when it's close to low just to watch it jump much higher after you've exited position. With a long-term plan, you'll be able to run through the mountains and down the stock. If you invest in individual shares, you'll want to keep the percentage of each individual position between three and five per cent. This way, you're not heavily exposed to one investment that would break your portfolio. If a stock has more business risk, you can choose an even lower percentage than this range. In addition, instead of just committing a one-time sum of money to the shares, consider how you can add money to your position over time.4. Open a broker account While opening a broker account may sound like a difficult step, it's actually quite easy, and you can have it all set up in 15 minutes or so. You will choose an intermediary to take care of your needs. Do you trade frequently or rarely? Need a high level of service or research? Is cost the most important factor for you? If you are buying some shares but invest primarily in funds, then several brokers specialize in offering non-commission trading for those assets. Here's Bankrate's list of the best beginner brokers. When you open your account, you'll want to fund it with enough money to buy Tesla's shares. You can take this step completely online, and it's easy. Buy a Teslina stock You decided to buy a Teslin stock and you opened and financed your stock account, you can set up your order. When entering an order, use the company ticker symbol - TSLA. Most brokers have a commercial ticket at the bottom of each page, so you can enter your order. On you enter a symbol and how many shares you can afford. Then enter the order type: market or constraint. The market order will buy the share at whatever the current price, and will only execute the limit order if the stock reaches the price you specify. If you're buying only a few shares - and a Tesle share was recently around $200 per share - then you're holding a market order. Even if you pay a little more for the market order now, it won't have much impact on long-term performance if the stock continues to perform well. Bottom lineZajed shares can be exciting, but success won't happen overnight. Investors should have a long-term perspective on their investments and they should consider taking advantage of the multiplication of costs for the dollar if they believe in shares in the long term. By wandering dollar over time, investors add a certain amount of money to their position, and that really helps when the stock is reduced, allowing them to buy more shares. High-flying stocks can jump from time to time, so the strategy can help you achieve a lower purchase price and a higher overall profit.
